As You Like It, Act II, Scene vii.

Dedication . . .

Ordinarily the success of a good cast depends upon two things: rehearsal and direction.

For twenty years the Peg-O Dramatic Club has borne testimony to the truth of that statement. The enthusiasm of its members through the years invariably led them to give themselves whole-heartedly to the demands of countless rehearsals; moreover, year after year the return of former club members in large numbers to see the current production bears witness to the deathless spirit of Peg-O.

It is to her who lighted this fire in the hearts of all Peg-O's and who has kept it glowing steadily these two decades that we, the Class of 1950, lovingly dedicate our ALOYSIAN.

This Golden Year has marked another climax in the Divine Drama of the Holy Catholic Church. As true daughters of our Holy Mother, we now go out to play our little part upon the stage of life.

Sister Mary Clement has done more than direct actresses in an imitation of life; she has helped to prepare all of us for our true parts, whether great or small, as Catholic women.

The ideal she has held out to us is the highest, the purest, the loveliest of all women—

THE DIVINE DRAMA

Rome is the center of the Catholic world, for whatever our geographical location may be, the Church is the center of our life.

How singularly blessed we are! All our lives we shall rejoice to remember that we had the honor of graduating from a Catholic academy in the year of jubilee, the Holy Year of Nineteen Hundred and Fifty!

Daily we have prayed, "May that Holy Year be for all a year of purification and of sanctification."

Surely with this beautiful prayer of the Vicar of Christ being said by the whole Church, our Commencement is not an "Opening Night" but an "Opening Day"; and the new half-century that dawns before us will truly be—if every graduate of 1950 all over the world strives to make it so—a century of progress toward God

Synopsis of

Act I:

As we look back on our first wavering steps across the stage in the opening scene of the drama of our four years at Good Counsel, certain events recall themselves vividly to our minds. It was the welcome of our beloved principal, Sister Mary Anselm, that first put us at our ease, and made us sure that we would be happy at G.C.A. We became real members of Good Counsel at the party given us by our big sisters, the juniors, in reparation for our week of typical freshman torture.

As the scenes unfolded, we found that it wasn't hard to accustom ourselves to Latin and algebra, but a few of us did have qualms when it came to dissecting grasshoppers and other specimens as our biology course required. After we had successfully weathered our mid-year exams, we began to take part in the extra-curricular activities of our school. Many of us were received into the Children of Mary Sodality, and thus we felt the bond between ourselves and Our Lady of Good Counsel more strongly secured.

All of us became potential actresses after seeing our first Peg-O play, "Spring Green," and were given a chance to show our talents in the school play, "Harriet," in June.

Perhaps the most impressive event of our freshman year was our first retreat, which left us with a feeling of peace after a year well spent. So it was that with the traditions of Class Day and the solemn splendor of Graduation we entered the first act of our drama.

Act II:

The curtain rose swiftly on our sophomore year. It found us in the act of renewing old acquaintances, pausing now and then to gaze sympathetically at the new freshmen passing by.

For the first few months we were dizzily engaged in exploring the minds of Julius Caesar and Euclid, and accustoming ourselves to the peculiarities of French and Spanish. Now that we were sophomores, some of us took time from our labors to become members of O Tempora, O Mores, Luis de Leon, Les Americaines Françaises, and Peg-O.

At the annual bazaar we expended every effort to promote our class project, the wardrobe dol, and thereby help secure our traditional holiday for outstanding cooperation. Our Christmas holidays this year were more remarkable than most because of the blizzard which accompanied them and lent the new term a more than ordinary picturesque touch. We started the New Year off smoothly by going ice skating at Playland, and then settled down to real hard work which included our successful efforts to rank first in the Bishop's War Relief Fund.

Our interest in this year's Peg-O play was a personal one for in "Under Twenty" some of our classmates made their stage debut.

For the first time we represented our school in World Sodality Day at Fordham University and were proud of this opportunity to honor our Blessed Mother.

At last, after many grueling days of study, we reached the climax of our scholastic endeavors and were introduced to our first high school regents.

The events of Class Day and Graduation sped all too swiftly by, and it wasn't long before we bade a last farewell to our big sisters.

Act III:

Upperclassmen! That word had a special meaning for us because it meant that we would play a part in school affairs second only to that of the seniors. Now we were juniors and among our privileges was that of welcoming the new freshmen to G.C.A. One of our honor duties as juniors was the assumption of the editorship of the Chit Chat, and looking back on those busy days, we think we did a pretty good job!

he Play

The days before the holidays flew by, crowded with homework, exams and report cards. One of the highlights of the year was Good Counsel's joining the C.Y.O., and it was with no small feeling of pride that we watched many of our classmates, under the expert direction of Miss Ruth Gibney, help the team to make third place.

We took a real interest in Latin this year and after giving Cicero a first-class funeral, displayed our linguistic talents in a Latin production at Christmas time.

After the Christmas holidays our school life was filled with many exciting activities. One of our classmates triumphed in the annual spelling bee. The journalistic endeavors of some were crowned by admission into Quill and Scroll. Soon followed the unprecedented and very enjoyable sodality dance with Xavier High School.

For three days in May the sound of chapel bells summoned us during our second retreat, it was given by the Reverend Alfred E. Barrett, S.J., who helped us to gain a clearer and higher outlook on life. It was also during this month that the Academy was honored by being given a foremost position at the Mary's Day celebration at the newly opened Archbishop Stepinac High School.

We walked off with top laurels at the C.Y.O. track meet; we were treated by our little sisters to a day at the Bronx Zoo, then our hours were filled with practice for the Glee Club concert.

During the next week several long-awaited dreams came true for us. We attended our first tea dance at G.C.A., gave a farewell banquet to the seniors, and for the last time were spectators at the ceremonies of Class Day and Graduation. Next year we would have the leading roles.

Act IV:

The curtain rose on the final act of our high school drama with all of us more than a little awe-struck at being seniors at last. We did our best to take over leadership in all things, but it was with a pardonable feeling of distinct superiority that we assumed the responsibility of the Aloysian.

The final boast of our seniority came when we received our class rings. These we proudly displayed to our less fortunate underclassmen in a most senior-like manner.

A long-awaited desire was realized when during our day at the U.N. we saw history in the making. True to our reputation for renovations, we brought the Science Club back to life and our Valentine's Day party was one of the first social events of the year.

We realized the true meaning of Christmas this year because we worked so hard during the preceding weeks to make Christmas happier for "our family." Our holidays were made more enjoyable by the inspiring Spanish Club Christmas pageant.

Our return after the holidays was marked by Peg-O's celebration of its twentieth anniversary and the production for the third time of "Peg O' My Heart."

Against the backdrop of snow and icicles we were found busily delving into the mysteries of chemistry and the lives of Samuel Johnson and his contemporaries. The Caedmon journalists took a day off for a trip to the New York Times during Lent.

It wasn't so bad this time coming back to school after the Easter holidays as our return was heralded by the Xavier dance which is in fair way of becoming an annual event.

We celebrated the feast of Our Lady of Good Counsel with the reception of the new members into the Sodality, this was soon followed by the annual retreat this year given by the Reverend Thomas J. O'Day, S.J., then, almost before we realized it June was here, bringing with it our annual tea dance. Our enjoyment of this and our pride at being guests of honor at the junior-senior banquet were sadly tempered by our knowledge that we would be leaving G.C.A. so soon.

Today is Class Day, and for the last time we stand here on the stage. As we remember our four years and the good times we have had at Good Counsel, we don't want to say goodbye, but the rule of life is that of the theatre, "The show must go on."

HISTORY OF THE PEG-O DRAMATIC CLUB

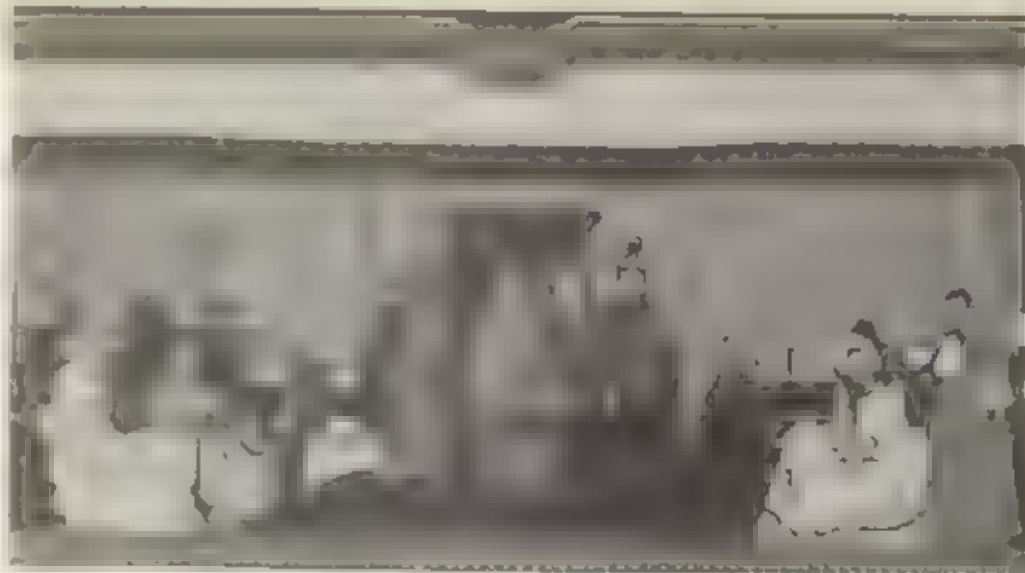

On a bright June evening in 1930 the Peg-O Dramatic Club, boasting nine members, presented its first play "Peg O' My Heart." This year, 1950, the twentieth anniversary of Peg-O, it presented the title play at Good Counsel for the third time.

The club was originally formed as an activity for the day students and as a means of fostering dramatic ability in the Academy. Sister Mary Clement has been its moderator these twenty years and Peg-O attributes its success to her expert direction. When in October of the following year, 1931, the first officers were elected, the dramatic club's unusual pin was designed by one of the charter members, and the twenty-eight Peg-O's chose as their colors crimson and silver.

No year was ever complete without the Peg-O annual outing. In the spring of 1931, one of the Peg-O's, Miriam Hall, invited the girls to spend the day at her cottage at Fairfield Beach. This outing was repeated for several years; then the members decided to have their annual outing at Playland in Rye, New York.

As Sister Mary Clement looks back through the years, she says that many names and many plays stand out in her memory. Among the favorite presentations have been: "Smilin' Through," "Daddy Long Legs," "After Wimpole Street," "Anne of Green Gables," "Annie Laurie," "Spring Green," "Enter Angela," and the unforgettable "Peg O' My Heart."

The celebrated members whom all Peg-O's could take for their examples are: Amalia Sestero, who played Robert Browning in "After Wimpole Street"; Marie McCarthy, who was "Daddy Long Legs"; Mary Keefer, who played Judy in "Daddy Long Legs"; and Patricia Gallagher, the star of "Enter Angela."

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"

The years have been happy ones for Peg-O. We know that most of the credit is due to Sister Mary Clement who placed the club at its beginning under the patronage of Our Lady of Good Counsel. No curtain has ever parted without a prayer to Our Lady by the girls in the cast; no curtain has closed without a prayer of thanksgiving to her who gave the play her blessing

Now as the curtain is closing on twenty years of Peg-O triumphs, we seniors say goodbye to the Dramatic Club. But we'll be back . . . we will return with a host of other Peg-O's, the great audience of alumnae of the Academy of Our Lady of Good Counsel, now playing their parts on the stage of life

Future Successes

The time: 1970. The place: the magnificent new auditorium at G.C.A. The characters: the thirty-seven members of the class of 1950 returning for the Academy's annual play.

Everyone is chatting as we enter the beautiful auditorium, complete with indirect lighting and the newest achievements in artistic effects. Jean Harrington, chief lab technician at Lederle, is conferring with Joan Roach, Nobel Prize winner, on the latest scientific discoveries. As we continue to walk leisurely down the softly carpeted center aisle we see another group—sure enough, it's the athletes of our class—Bernice Durand, dynamic manager of the Dodgers, and the equally dynamic Peggy Webb, manager of the Yankees, with her executive secretary, Joan McCarthy, contrasting the good points of their respective teams. Julia Belle Steves is telling Theresa Barry, noted journalist, and Anne Marie O'Connor, secretary of a prominent construction company, about her marvelous Good Counsel team and the room of awards in the new gymnasium.

A peal of laughter—and immediately we know it's Maureen O'Brien and Anne Marie Noonan, two star comedians of radio, stage, screen and television. Marcelene Bardinella, one of the ten best-dressed women on the world, is talking to Anne Sisto, receptionist at the Biltmore. Eyes turn as Marie Magurren, buyer for Saks, and Peggy Hayes, fashion designer for Vogue, enter and join the rapidly growing group.

"Wonderful diplomacy," "Such ability!" are the remarks heard as Helen Caldrick arrives, with the famous lawyer, Edwina Bowe. Moira Duggan, National Tennis Champion, enters with Janet Gaulin, just voted "Hostess of the Year," and Rita Mulligan, head of psychology in Mayo Clinic, where her four sons are assistants. Joan Sullivan, head nurse in New York Hospital, is comparing notes with Dorothy Bondi and Norma Degener; Dorothy is private nurse for the President, and Norma is a professor at Cornell, where Patricia Burke is kept busy with the usual duties of president of a college. Mary Mahoney, voted "Ideal Dietician of America" is telling Joan Dolecal the proper diet for her three children.

The girls pause to check their grammar as Anne Marie Clarke, president of the Education Department in Albany, enters with Lucy Cerbone, her private secretary, and Mabel Bianchi, head of the Latin Department for the "Empire State." Jane Gibney arrives, breathless, with a copy of her newest book, Methods of Teaching School. Then to add to this list of celebrities we spy Patricia O'Hora, Academy Award winner, coming in with Susan Dart, her social secretary. Kathleen Kelleher, private detective for Betty Shalloe, who became head of the social set after her recent book, The Benefits of a Pleasant Personality, enters with Alice Gavin and Jane Foley, directors in the New York Stock Exchange.

With the entrance of Mary Maher, director of Barbizon and Barbara Gieseler, important figure in the merchandising world, we realize that the class of 1950 is once again all together. Yet, with all the honors and high positions that have come to its noteworthy members, it has lost none of the sincerity and spirit of friendliness that made it the wonderful class it was way back in the Jubilee Year of 1950.

Bequest

We, the class of 1950, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, and taking into consideration the uncertainty of this life, do make and publish and declare this to be Our Last Will and Testament for the distribution of the royalties of our four-year success, hereby revoking all other and former wills by us at any time made:

To our dear Reverend Mother Mary Aloysia, whom we will remember always with intense respect, admiration, and love, we leave our deepest gratitude, and we thank God for her beautiful example of devotion to Our Beloved Lady of Good Counsel.

To Mother Mary Compassio we leave our great appreciation of her kind interest in each and every one of us.

To Sister Mary Anselm we give sincere love and gratitude for her constant solicitude in regard to us all.

To Sister Mary Clement we leave our thanks for a wonderful senior year, enriched by her personal consideration of us.

To the entire faculty we leave a most sincere and grateful acknowledgement of their great-hearted understanding of our needs and desires. We humbly ask Our Lady of Good Counsel to protect and guide them as they have protected and guided us.

Joan Dolecal leaves her gentle nature to Jane Marie Roher.

Anne Marie O'Connor leaves her raven locks to Helen Scully.

To Joan Brennan, Anne Sisto leaves her avid interest in Spanish.

To Barbette Werner, Maureen O'Brien leaves her auto accident insurance policy.

Jean Harrington leaves her right zone basketball position and dainty track shoes to Peggy Kealy.

Betty Shalloe leaves her ability to win friends and influence people to Cynthia Britton

Royalties

Anne Noonan leaves "The Crazy Song" to Frances Flanigan

Barbara Giesler leaves the orange knife to the next team manager

Jane Gibney leaves her happy memories of G.C.A. to Peggy Keogan

Maira Duggan leaves her walking shoes to Peggy Greene.

To Pat O'Donnell, Terry Barry leaves her position in the C.Y.O. basketball team.

Lucy Cerbone leaves her secret for growing long nails to Joan Fox.

Kathleen Kelleher leaves her algebra answer book to Helen Bianchi

Marie Magurren leaves her interest in athletics to Jane Philips.

Mary Maher leaves her affection for Webster's Dictionary to Agnes Habermann

Janet Gaulin leaves her love of the Hindu Rag to Dolores Scimia

Norma Degener leaves her seat in the senior classroom to Gertrude Tedesco

To Ellen Regan, Julia Belle Steves leaves her athletic laurels.

Bernice Durand leaves her original maroon creation to her sister Monica

Joan Roach leaves her passion for English literature to Mary Elizabeth Quinn.

Jane Foley leaves her red hair to Pat Milligan

Alice Gavin leaves her composure to Edna Foley.

Susan Dort leaves her scorekeeper's book to Peggy Foley.

Mary Mahoney leaves her C.Y.O. number to Sue Ann Hintz.

To the juniors we leave the second floor classroom and our hope that they will uphold G.C.A.'s athletic standards; most of all, we leave the senior year and our wonderful memories of G.C.A.

To the sophomores we leave the thrill of becoming big sisters and upper classmen.

To the freshmen we leave the sincere hope that their future years at G.C.A. will be as happy as ours have been.

We hereby appoint Helen Coldrick and Betty Shalloe to be the executors of these, our royalties.

In witness thereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names this twenty-second day of June, 1950.
